MEXICAN ARMY INVADES US TERRITORY AMERICA REACTS!!

This intrepid reporter has seen with his own eyes the hordes of army recruits boarding trains for the frontier. These youthful men seem to be full of the joys of victory as rumours of the Mexican advance floundering in the mountains of Arkansas spread throughout the States. Thanks to the sterling work of the frontier regulators the newly completed South Western railroad has been instrumental in allowing these men to be transported to the front. The notorious town of Deadwood is being used as a staging post for these army units and townfolk have been evacuated to the state capitol. Anyone wishing to reach the mayor's office or any of the townfolk should direct their messages for the grand union hotel.

Mexican troops take key positions

HISTORIC TREATY FINALISED - RAILROAD TO CONTINUE TO THE GREAT STATE OF TEXAS

The Quapaw nation has signed an historic treaty with the Governor of the State of Arkansas. The Nation of the Quapaw has agreed to migrate to the great planes to the west of Arkansas and establish a new Tribal Nation. It is hoped that other tribes in the region will now also take this opportunity to join these great men. While the army would normally be charged with supervising and supplying the migration the surprise invasion by Mexican forces has left the region in short supply of troops. Once again the regulators office has stepped in to offer its services and as such will operate a number of resupply posts along the route of the migration.

CATTLE RANCHERS THREATEN REVOLUTION!!

Cattle ranchers throughout the western frontier and in particular those of the State of Arkansas are in uproar about the proposed migration of the Indian nation of the Quapaw to the fertile plains to the west they are appealing to the state legislator to exclude large swaths of currently proposed reservation aside for cattle grazing. Of particular contention are those lands directly north and west of Arkansas were many free ranchers are already beginning to establish settlements.

RED MAN'S TREACHERY!

At a briefing held at the central staging area. This reporter was able to observe the briefing being given to the departing captains of the 4th regular infantry. It seems that while the majority of the mighty savage in the Southern State of Arkansas there remain a number of rebellious groups who still wish to oppose the rights of the good white folk in the region. The officer of the day warned the troops to listen out for the war drums and to shoot on site any brave with red war paint on their face. He was particularly keen to press those charge with the defence of supply lines the danger (cont)

of these roaming bands of natives. After further investigation this reporter has managed to find out the name of the leader of the dog soldiers to be a brave named RED HAWK though it seems that through the heroic work of the regulators office his grip over the people of the Quapaw nation indigenous to the state of Arkansas has been loosened.
